For more than fifty years has PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER stood the test against all remedies prepared to eradicate pain, and today stands at the head of the list among the medicines that are so essential to keep at hand in the home.

It is not a new fangle remedy nor do the proprietors lay claim to any wonderful revelation of the ingredients that enter into the manufacture of this ever popular remedy.

It is perfectly harmless, you need have no fear of becoming habitually inclined to its use.

For Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, Colds, and all painful affections, a few doses will certainly give relief. You cannot afford to be without a bottle in the house.

Your forefathers used it and found it beneficial.

Why experiment with some remedy that is new and its effect on the system unknown?

It has many rivals but no equal.

The new 35c. size contains over double the quantity of the 25c. size.

Difficult Collections a SpecialtyA NEEDED INVENTION.*The Brooklyn Man Tells the Policeman All About It.

The Brooklyn man who stopped the policeman on the corner just a minute before the policeman stopped him looked as if he had been through a Klondike winter and had left the country afterward through the little end of a thrashing machine.

"Here, Mr. Policeman!" he began, when the policeman put in:

"What's the matter with you anyhow?" he asked.

"Domestic, purely domestic," he explained.

"Glad to hear there are no foreign complications," said the officer encouragingly.

"There ain't. There never is. There never was. But what us married men need is protection."

"Well, hasn't the Dingley bill gone through a-whooping? What more do you want?" smiled the officer, who was disposed to be facetious.

"Yes, but that's got nothing to do with my case," contended the man indignantly. "What us married men want is protection against our wives. Look at me, Mr. Officer. Look at me. I'm a married man, and my condition is entirely due to my wife."

"You are sober enough, I guess," said the officer, looking him over.

"Course I am. Taint that neither."

What we want is some of these here inventors who are turning out all kinds of machines that are doing all kinds of things we don't have any use for once in 1,000 years to get right down on their marrow bones and invent a machine that will go on the letter a wife hands to her husband to mail when he's got something else to think about, so that when he passes a mail box or a carrier or the postoffice this same invention will yank the letter out of his pocket and chuck the whole thing into where it belongs. Then when the letters are collected the machines can be taken off and sent back to their owners for future use. Now a thing like that would have saved me from looking like I look now and would have made it possible for me to go back home before two weeks."

"Why?" began the officer, when the man shut him off.

"Aw, don't worry me any whys," he said. "By gosh, I carried that letter around two weeks, and it ought to go to the place in four days, and when it didn't it kept my wife from doing something or other one of the new women societies she belongs to wanted her to do, and so she just lit into me, and you see what a wreck I am."

"Where are you going?" asked the officer kindly as the man started off.

"Darned if I know," he said. "I guess I'll go down here to the nearest saloon and throw dice to see whether I'll go to a hotel or a hospital."—New York Sun.
